1	The Leverhulme Trust	British Academy/Leverhulme Small Research Grants 2019	05/06/2019	£10,000	2	Economics, Psychology, International Relations, Sociology & Anthropology, Statistics and more ...	https://research.huji.ac.il/call_for_proposal/British_Academy/leverhulme_Small_Research_Grants_2019		Awards are open to postdoctoral scholars (or equivalent) who are ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom. Co-applicants may be from anywhere in the world, but the Principal Applicant must be ordinarily resident in the UK.	The BA/Leverhulme Small Research Grants are available to support primary research in the humanities and social sciences and are provided to cover the cost of the expenses arising from a defined research project. All applications should demonstrate that Academy funds are sought for a clearly defined, discrete piece of research, which will have an identifiable outcome on completion of the Academy-funded component of the research. Funds are available to facilitate initial project planning and development; to support the direct costs of research; and to enable the advancement of research through workshops or conferences, or visits by or to partner scholars. Applicants may seek support for any combination of eligible activity and cost up to the overall limit of £10,000.
2	Alzheimer's Drug Discovery Foundation	Alzheimer's Drug Discovery Foundation (ADDF) - Diagnostics Accelerator: Digital Biomarkers	07/06/2019	$500,000		Public Health, Brain Sciences, Ageing, Biotechnology	https://research.huji.ac.il/call_for_proposal/Alzheimers_Drug_Discovery_Foundation_(addf)_-Diagnostics_Accelerator_Digital_Biomarkers	https://www.idf.il/		Proposals addressing a range of potential clinical uses are of interest, especially technologies for early assessment and those aiding in diagnosis and monitoring treatment response or rate of disease progression. Creative approaches to leverage new and existing software and hardware are encouraged. Importantly, the use of the digital technology should be driven by 1) an unmet patient or scientific need for a better assessment and/or 2) providing a more cost-effective, efficient, and less burdensome approach to diagnosis and monitoring in clinical practice and clinical trials. Three stages of projects will be supported through this RFP: Exploratory awards will support pilot studies that aim to test the utility of an existing digital technology for the first time in an Alzheimer's disease or related dementia population. These projects should already have preliminary human data from another disease indication. Proof-of-principle awards will support projects that demonstrate feasibility and/or verify that a certain approach has potential for use in Alzheimer's disease or related dementias. Preliminary data from human subjects with the proposed indication is expected. Validation awards will support projects that require testing at a larger scale and access to patients of varying demographic diversity to demonstrate clinical relevance.

MacArthur Foundation	MacArthur Foundation - 100&Change competition	08/06/2019	#####		All disciplines	https://research.huji.ac.il/call_for_proposal/Macarthur_foundation_change_competition	https://www.macfound.org/press/press-releases/new-competition-100-million-grant-launches-round-two-100change/		Solving society's biggest problems is not easy, but it can be done. 100&Change is a MacArthur Foundation competition for a $100 million grant to fund a single proposal that will make measurable progress toward solving a significant problem. 100&Change will select a bold proposal that promises real progress toward solving a critical problem of our time. And it will award a $100 million grant to help make that solution a reality. Proposals focused on any critical issue are welcome. The Top 100 will be selected in February 2020 and Finalists in the spring of 2020. During the spring and summer of 2020, finalists will work with an expert team to strengthen their proposals, present a preliminary plan for monitoring and evaluation and learning, and show authentic engagement with communities of interest before submitting revised project plans. MacArthur's Board of Directors will select the final award recipient in the fall of 2020.

These grants are intended for established, experienced, independent investigators affiliated with a research or academic institution whose proposed projects investigate hypotheses directly related to Dravet syndrome. Proposals are scored according to NIH guidelines based on the quality of preliminary data, research design, feasibility, investigator's qualifications, and overall impact. 2019 priority areas include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Transformative research to enhance our understanding of the cellular, molecular, genetic and systems-level mechanisms that lead to Dravet syndrome, facilitating the continued investigation of disease-modifying or preventative strategies • Research that will encourage the development of novel therapies to prevent onset or halt the progression of the Dravet syndrome • Research focused on new, effective treatments for Dravet syndrome and/or its comorbidities

9	Economic and Social Research Council and Department for International Development	Approaches to Understanding and Measuring Wellbeing (UK)	20/06/2019	£500,000	2-3 years	Social Sciences	https://research.huji.ac.il/call_for_proposal/Approaches_To_Understanding_And_Measuring_Wellbeing_uk	https://esrc.ukri.org/funding/funding-opportunities/approaches-to-understanding-and-measuring-wellbeing/	The aim of this call is to fund a project that will consider a range of methodologies and approaches to the understanding and measurement of wellbeing in varying contexts. Examples of areas that could be investigated include but are not limited to the following: Understanding and measurement of life satisfaction and its relationship to other measures of wellbeing (eg happiness, anxiety, mental health problems, social capital) and the appropriateness of this measure for different population groups (eg those with learning disabilities) Capturing/measuring the distribution of wellbeing across different populations (accounting for wellbeing inequalities, relationship between wellbeing and economic, social and political inequalities, measuring the wellbeing of future generations, indirect impact on the wellbeing of others) Exploring how macro-level goals for wellbeing can be translated to apply across multiple jurisdictions and policy areas eg the devolved nations as well as specific sectors and agencies Consolidating the understanding and measurement of wellbeing in different contexts to derive recommended frameworks with metrics (including at the community level, within the work context) Understanding wellbeing across the life course and identifying the significance of transition points, including the potential consequences and impacts of different life events. Proposals should involve a diverse range of perspectives and disciplines from across the social sciences and the arts and humanities. Principal investigators (PIs) must be based at an UK research organisation eligible for research council funding. Co-Is may be based anywhere in the world, but the Co-I's research organisation must submit a 'letter of support' using the template provided within the Je-S guidance.

Proposals for activities other than research, or proposals for research studies focused on areas other than education, are not eligible. Principal Investigators (PIs) and Co-PIs applying for a Large Research Grant on Education must have an earned doctorate in an academic discipline or professional field, or appropriate experience in an education research-related profession. While graduate students may be part of the research team, they may not be named the PI or Co-PI on the proposal. The PI must be affiliated with a college, university, school district, non-profit research facility, or non-profit cultural institution that is willing to serve as the administering organization if the grant is awarded. The Spencer Foundation does not award grants directly to individuals. Proposals are accepted from the U.S. and including DoD institutions of higher education and foreign universities, may submit proposals under this FOA. A single PI must be designated on the application to serve as administrative and technical project lead. There is no restriction on the number of additional key research personnel who can be included on a single application, but each position should be justified by the scope and focus of the research.	The Large Research Grants on Education Program supports education research projects that will contribute to the improvement of education, broadly conceived, with budgets ranging from $125,000 up through $500,000 for projects ranging from one to five years. This program is "field-initiated" in that proposal submissions are not in response to a specific request for a particular research topic, discipline, design, or method. Our goal for this program is to support rigorous, intellectually ambitious and technically sound research that is relevant to the most pressing questions and compelling opportunities in education. We value work that fosters creative and open-minded scholarship, engages in deep inquiry, and examines robust questions related to education. To this end, this program supports proposals with multiple disciplinary and methodological perspectives, both domestically and internationally, and from scholars at various stages in their career. We seek to support scholarship that develops new foundational knowledge that may also have a lasting impact on policy-making, practice, or educational discourse.

The EI are looking for proposals that seek to test novel, unconventional hypotheses or pursue major methodological or technical challenges in network modeling for epilepsy. The EI are interested in funding innovative multi-scale approaches to brain mapping. Therefore, the foundation encourage proposal submissions that can begin to correlate standard measures of macro-network activity (i.e. EEG and/or fMRI) with microphysiological mechanisms (such as oxygen, microdialysis of extracellular fluids, local field potentials, etc).

Military personnel and other individuals who suffer from TBI face an increased risk for developing several long-term health problems. These conditions include Alzheimer's-like dementia, aggression, memory loss, depression, and symptoms similar to those of other neurological diseases. The PRARP is devoted to (1) understanding the association between TBI and AD; and (2) reducing the burden on affected individuals and caregivers, especially in the military and Veteran communities. Support for these objectives is anticipated to be delivered by the research community through a combination of mechanistic and preclinical studies. □

One goal is to cultivate innovative and practical ideas that expand the boundaries of the actuarial profession into new practice areas. This "Practice Expansion" goal looks to fund high quality research projects that directly educate members on new concepts, or deepen knowledge in emerging topics. Additionally, the SOA desires to develop additional intellectual capital that serves the interest of the public and the profession's stakeholders. This "Social Relevance" goal aims to further the profession's focus on objective research that can be used by stakeholders as input for recommendations and decisions on key societal issues. Proposals should approach a topic with actuarial competencies in mind. This includes competencies such as management and measurement of risk among others. Furthermore, proposals should include an overarching focus on the core principles of SOA research including objectivity, quality, relevance and quantification. Suggested Topic Areas: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The drivers and impact of anxiety, mental and behavioral disorders on healthcare cost and utilization, morbidity rates, and mortality rates. 2. Cost and utilization, efficacy of treatments, and future cost projection for natural, alternative or holistic health care therapies and treatments. 3. The impact and evolution of risk management due to changes in frequency, severity and variety of weather-related catastrophe. 4. The use of predictive analytics models, mathematical statistics and significance tests for determining insurance rating methods and rate validation boundaries and thresholds. 5. The impact on behavior, actions and financial decisions resulting from evolving modern payment and financing methods. 6. The future evolution and improved prediction and modeling of causes of death.

The Spencer Foundation does not award grants directly to individuals.	Current developments in the research field of "Artificial Intelligence" have the potential to fundamentally transform society and bring about far-reaching changes on social, political and economic levels. In contrast to major technological upheavals in the past, the changes are distinctive in particular due to their impact on almost all areas of society and social classes, as well as their extremely high and fast accelerating dynamics of change. Against this backdrop, the Foundation's funding initiative focuses on joint, integrative research approaches in the social and engineering sciences which deal in a new way with questions in the area of "Artificial Intelligence and the Society of the Future". The initiative therefore aims to provide incentives to develop a broader approach to fundamental issues and to allow participating researchers the freedom of scope for explorative research projects that broaden the range of methods and approaches of their respective disciplines.

In search of bold research ideas 2019	10/07/2019	#####	1.5	Autism, Cyber, Psychology, Environmental Sciences, Energy, Ageing, Biotechnology, Diabetes and more	https://research.huji.ac.il/call_for_proposal/Experiment_In_Search_Of_Bold_Research_Ideas_2019	https://www.volkswagenstiftung.de/en/funding/our-funding-portfolio-at-a-glance/experiment	Submission is with a German research partner only.	The exploration of exceptionally daring new ideas is not yet really a focal point of the research agenda in Germany, as far as facing challenges and radically transforming common wisdom are concerned. This often requires to establish counterintuitive hypotheses as well as unconventional methodologies or technologies, and to focus on entirely new research approaches. The Volkswagen Foundation's funding initiative 'Experiment!' tries to pave the way for fundamentally new research topics even though the outcome may be contingent. A concept failure as well as unexpected findings are an acceptable result. The initiative addresses researchers in science and engineering as well as in the life sciences (including immediately neighboring disciplines in the behavioral sciences), who want to put a potentially transformative and risky research idea to the test. They are given the opportunity to demonstrate preliminary evidence for a concept's potential during an exploratory phase which is limited to 18 months and up to 120,000 Euro.

This connection can be established either at a personal level through German scientists working on the project, at an institutional level through non-German scientists being affiliated to German research institutes or through studies on topics related thematically to German research interests. Due to increasing interest in this program, an internal pre-proposal stage will take place. Out of the pre-proposals submitted, up to five will be approved for a full proposal submission. In addition to the Thyssen Foundation's criteria, HUJI might give preference to young scientists and/or those without previous submission to the Thyssen Foundation. The sole purpose of the Foundation is the direct support of scholarship and research in universities and non-profit research institutions, primarily in Germany, with special emphasis on giving help to young scholars and scientists. The foundation also funds international collaboration. Proposals should either be joint proposals with a German partner or should address a topic related to Germany. Support of projects by the Fritz Thyssen Foundation focuses on scholars in the humanities, social science and biomedicine fields. The planned project should be limited in terms of the subject and time. An application can be filed in the following areas of support: History, Language & Culture The interdisciplinary field "Image-Sound-Language" State, Economy and Society Medicine and the Natural Sciences Interdisciplinary projects are also welcomed by the foundation.

We accept applications three times per year. This program is "field-initiated" in that proposal submissions are not in response to a specific request for a particular research topic, discipline, design, or method. Our goal for this program is to support rigorous, intellectually ambitious and technically sound research. We recognize that learning occurs across the life course as well as across settings—from the classroom to the workplace, to family and community contexts and even onto the playing field—any of which may, in the right circumstance, provide the basis for rewarding study that makes significant contributions to the field. We value work that fosters creative and open-minded scholarship, engages in deep inquiry, and examines robust questions related to education. To this end, this program supports proposals from multiple disciplinary and methodological perspectives, both domestically and internationally, from scholars at various stages in their career. The foundation has 3 deadlines a year: March 1, July 1 and November 1

Previous grant recipients have developed courses in history, literature, security studies, peace and conflict studies, theater and dance, and more.	The Israel Institute offers grants to tenured faculty members to help them add Israel-focused courses to their teaching portfolios. The purpose of this program is to assist professors who have the interest and desire, but not yet the expertise, to teach courses about modern Israel. Faculty Development grants afford select scholars the opportunity to conduct research, travel to Israel, hone language skills, or pursue any other activity that would be conducive to developing and teaching Israel Studies courses.

The best way to find out if your project request is a good match with the goals and vision of the Foundation is to submit an online grant proposal. The Foundation generally supports only Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c)(3) non-profit public charities and universities that are organized and operated within the United States. However, The US desk at AR&D has signed contracts with this fund due to its	The Charles Koch Foundation focuses on a select number of programs that support social progress, well-being, and long-term prosperity. In addition to welcoming new ideas for these topics, we also invite general research proposals. The Charles Koch Foundation supports the exploration of how free societies best achieve long-term peace, civility, and well-being by enabling individuals to flourish by helping others. In order to accomplish this, the Charles Koch Foundation supports those asking pressing questions to help foster progress on critical issues. What drives long-term human flourishing? What characteristics of a society give individuals the best opportunities to improve their lives?

The strategic focus of our research program is the rapid development (5 to 7 years) of new indications of focused ultrasound. The program's niche is translational research. he fund offers the High Risk Track: Provides funding for high-risk, early-stage, proof-of-concept research projects that are unlikely to receive funding from other sources but that, if successful, could have a profound impact on the advancement of the field of focused ultrasound.
103	Israel Innovation Authority	France-Israel R&D Program - Bilateral Programs General Information	All year submission			Autism, Cyber, Diabetes, Nutrition, Environmental Sciences, Energy, Soil and Water Sciences and more ...	https://research.huji.ac.il/call_for_proposal/France_Israel_R_d_Program_-_Bilateral_Programs	https://www.franceisrael-rd.com/bilateral-programs	The R&D project should present a consortium composed by at least one Israeli and one French participant. The participation of research institutes and/or academic institutions is welcome as additional participants or subcontractors according to each country's funding regulations.	The France-Israel Industrial R&D Cooperation Framework (acronym FIRAD) promotes R&D collaboration between French and Israeli companies. The France-Israel R&D program provides support to qualifying applications. Each partner receives funding from their national funding bodies: ISERD for Israel, and Bpifrance for France, provided it meets their criteria for funding. The applicants have to demonstrate that the project will bring strong technological and commercial upsides for both. Also, the collaboration must have a significant added-value and be fruitful for both entities. The companies must have the technological, commercial and financial capabilities to successfully bring the new product to market.

104	The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation	The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation - grants	All year submission			Higher Education and Scholarship in the Humanities Diversity, Arts and Cultural Heritage, Diversity, Scholarly communication, International Higher Education and Strategic Projects	https://mellon.org/grants/grantmaking-policies-and-guidelines/grant-proposal-guidelines/#ProposalGuidelinesProgramArea	The Foundation also makes grants to organizations outside the United States that are equivalent to US public charities.	The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation supports a wide range of initiatives to strengthen the humanities, arts, higher education, and cultural heritage. Organizations in those fields can consult descriptions of the Foundation's areas of grantmaking to determine whether a project fits within the Foundation's programmatic interests and mission. Prospective grantees should review program area guidelines before inquiring about a particular project. If Foundation staff find that the project fits within the Foundation's grantmaking priorities, staff will invite a grant proposal. Once invited, grantees should be prepared to work closely with program staff in refining the proposal, often through multiple drafts. Based on the final proposal, program staff will determine whether to bring a grant recommendation to the Board of Trustees at one of its quarterly meetings (generally held in March, June, September, and December). The Foundation also invites and considers a limited number of grants in the amount of $150,000 or less for approval by the Foundation's Officers ("Officer's Grants") between Board meetings.

Within this funding segment the Foundation supports outstanding projects beyond existing funding schemes, disciplinary boundaries, and the mainstream. In order to be eligible for funding, projects in this category not only have to fulfill most stringent quality requirements, they must also plausibly explain why they cannot apply for funding elsewhere. There is a preference for projects tackling extraordinary transdisciplinary or methodological challenges, for projects depending on a specific window of opportunity, and for projects with another convincing 'unique selling point'. In accordance with the open character of this funding segment there cannot exist a generally valid catalogue of criteria. Before drafting detailed proposals applicants should first contact the respective program manager for their subject area in order to clarify whether their project can be considered and how to proceed. An initial inquiry with an outline should explain the presumed lack of established funding schemes and roughly sketch the required budget.
