

Kaete Klausner Scholarships
for MA& Doctoral Students New Immigrants ("Olim Hadashim")
for the academic year 2021-2022

The Hebrew University is pleased to announce the distribution of Kaete Klausner scholarships. There will be granted three scholarships for MA students (in the research track) and two scholarships for PhD students learning at the Hebrew University, who are New Immigrants* ("Olim Hadashim").

For the purposes of this scholarship, "New Immigrants", are students who received their Israeli citizenship after October 2015.

 Returning Residents are not eligible for this scholarship.

Preference will be given to candidates who made Aliyah alone.

Furthermore, candidates who began their MA studies within 5 years of receiving Israeli citizenship and are continuing on to a doctoral degree are eligible to apply if they do so not more than a year after completing their MA studies.

The scholarships are intended, as a first priority, for candidates who begun their MA or PhD studies in the academic year (2021-2022). However, the applications of new immigrants, as defined above, who are already in the process of studying for a master's degree and a doctorate at the Hebrew University (currently in their second year for a master's degree or in their second year for a doctorate) will also be considered. In this case the scholarship will be given for one year to the MA student and for 4 years to a PhD doctoral students.

The scholarships are intended for candidates who have completed their studies for a previous degree "with distinction" (Magna Cum Laude) at least.

One may receive this scholarship for up to two years in a row (for MA studies) or five years (for PhD studies) as long as they meet the academic requirements, i.e.: subject to reporting on their academic progress by the end of each year of the scholarship and recommendation from the PhD advisor. Candidates must study a full load during the period of the scholarship.

The yearly scholarship is $16,000 (for MA studies) and $22,000 (for PhD studies). In addition, awardees will receive a one-time sum ($1,500) for the purchase of a laptop computer. Furthermore, candidates will be awarded an additional sum as part of his/her tuition (that is to say the winner will not have an exemption of tuition):

- Doctoral students will receive $1,500/year for each of the first two years and $350/year for the remaining three years scholarship.
- MA students will receive $3,700 for each of the two years of the scholarship.

Doctoral students will receive yet an additional sum ($2,000/year) in their third and in their fourth years of the scholarship, that can be used only to finance the travelling to two scientific conferences abroad.

The scholarships will be paid in monthly installments through the Hebrew University's scholarships system. All the amounts are payable in Shekels, on the 1st of each month.

Candidates should submit their application in a PDF file that will include the documents in the following order:

- CV and if available a list of publications (in English or Hebrew). The CV must include: ID number, Israeli phone/mobile number, e-mail address, and the name of thesis advisor.
- Personal letter with candidate's presentation and detailing the research intentions (in English or Hebrew).
- Photocopies of your Oleh certificate and of the Israeli ID
- Transcripts of your past studies abroad and in Israel (if it's the case)
- Two letters of recommendation from faculty members who taught you (in Israel or abroad). A third letter from the thesis advisor can be added (if he's/she's already designated by the application time)

Applying to these scholarships can be done only through the faculty of the candidate.
